PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE by Jerry Lively

Trick or Treat? So far this year there have been more tricks than treats. I am hoping that the Ling Cod have been as lazy as I have been and have grown accordingly. We need only three large ones to fill out our season. The only problem is that I have lost so many sinkers out there I think I have filled in all the Ling Cod hiding holes.

The season is almost over. It is back to bottom fishing and drifting around the kelp beds. I finally get the boat running right and its time to put it away for the winter. I guess it is time to fix up the cosmetics and those nice to have options that never seem to get the attention due to the necessities required to get to the fish. It is also a good time to take a long look at the tackle you have taken off the boat. Clean up the reels and grease them. Change out that line that got stretched out on that big fish you caught (or in my case that snag I couldn't undo). Fix those guides that have bothered you all season. You know the one that is broken and the line gets around it and frays. Check your lines for frays and cuts. You can feel these by running the line between your fingers as you reel in. These frays and cuts occur with the professional overcasts many of us experience along with the outrigger clips and being pulled under the boat by a big fish.

If you are like me you prefer to stay out of the insides of the reels. There are far too many springs, catches, latches, gears, bearings, drags washers, washers and types of grease and oil that I am unaware of. I like to take my reels every couple of years to the professionals at your local tackle shop and have them gone through. I have lost a few fish on reels that I reworked and find the small charge that the tackle shops charge you is well worth it. Unless you are really mechanically inclined and have a lot of time on your hands you should try the tackle shops expertise.

Once again I am pleading with our membership to become involved with the club. Join the board of directors and spend some time getting to know the rest of the people who make up the club. It is a rewarding experience as you get to know the people involved in the fishing community. They are great people and come from all types of backgrounds. Volunteer.

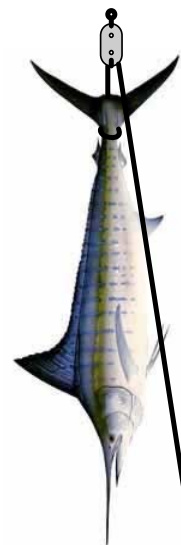

We are also starting our membership drive. 2010 is just around the corner and we want to get started.

Thanks for a great season and I am looking forward to fishing with you next year.

2009 What's Hot Final Results

42 Anglers on 13 Boats had high hopes as anything goes in this potpourri style tourney. Some went south, some went west, and a few went north where the Scott's Johnny took Top Boat, Top Male and Top Junior by finding Tuna with the porpoise just west of the 209 and Hasta La Vista followed up Sunday with their fish while the Lively One made it out to the West Butterfly to round out the top 3 boats. Several boats that went north had a few chances at marlin as well but they could find no biters, even at 1/4 point per pound a small fish could have been the jackpot.

Top Boat

Scott's Johnny 59.6 , Hasta La Vista 55.9, Lively One 35.2

Top Male

Clayton Dumstorff 24.6 YFT , Jeff Behr 21.2 YFT, Kevin Shannon 19.1 YFT
